

"Environmental Insights for Sustainable Impact"

INTERNSHIP

Market Research & Analysis

COMPANY

Space4Good is an innovative social enterprise providing environmental insights to unlock, accelerate, and scale sustainable impact for our planet and its people. We combine satellite Earth observation, local geodata, and AI to map, analyze, and model complex ecosystems—focusing on deforestation, nature regeneration, carbon, and biodiversity. Our flagship product, Forester, supports forest managers with real-time alerts, predictive analytics, and user-friendly reporting to fight illegal deforestation. We are a small, international and value-driven team of 15 people operating across the globe.

INTERNSHIP GOAL

Research and analyze suitable markets for Space4Good's current and future business development.

INTERNSHIP TIMELINE

Start: flexible from May 2025 onwards

Duration: min. 3 months

RESPONSIBILITIES

You will support the team in understanding our positioning in current markets and explore new opportunities for scale. This includes conducting research on forestry, carbon, biodiversity, and ESG monitoring sectors to identify underserved regions and emerging trends. You'll help map competitive landscapes, support customer interviews and persona development, and assist in sizing market opportunities. Additionally, you'll contribute to the preparation of internal reports and business development materials while recommending improvements to our go-to-market and value proposition strategies. You will have the freedom to explore areas of interest and collaborate across both business and technical teams.

PROFILE

We are looking for somebody who has:

- A background in business, environmental economics, development studies, or sustainability.
- Experience or interest in market research and strategy development.
- Strong analytical and communication skills (verbal and written).
- Ability to work independently and collaboratively in a diverse, hybrid team.
- Current enrollment in a relevant university program.
- Genuine interest in Space4Good's mission and environmental tech.
